« FOREWORD »

If we, the Senior Class of 1933, have caught some of the happy, fleeting moments spent in Marshall High School, where we have all worked and played together, if we have made them live again between the covers of this book, if the memories that these pages awaken, bring you a stronger realization of the true spirit and worthy ideals of Marshall High School — then our efforts have not been in vain.

« DEDICATION »

With all sincerity and respect, the Dial of 1933 is dedicated to our superintendent, Mr. H. W. Holmes, whose thoughts have always been for the success of the students of Marshall High School, and for the school itself, and whose foresight and generosity has made this book possible; and to our advisor, Mr. D. H. Horton, who has given unsparingly of his time and labor to guide us in the publication of this book, we dedicate this, our memory book.

Senior Class History

In the eventful fall of 1929, there thronged across the portals of Marshall High, eighty-seven ''hopefuls'', eager to begin their high school careers. After getting properly acquainted at the Seniors' ''get together'' party, they held a ''pow wow'' and selected Roger Johnson to pilot them through the maze of freshman life. Maxine Murray was made first mate while Evelyn Zull was chosen as class scribe with Edith Harwood holding the purse strings. Although they were traditionally supposed to be timid and ''green'', class members ventured forth to capture their share of the honors in activities. Two members secured berths on the debating squad while another was outstanding in athletics. They furnished a dozen members for the band and orchestra. A picnic at Pine Lake ended their first year.

The next fall they came back feeling well up in the world, as first sophomore class in the new building. They paraded through the halls with an air of great wisdom, as shining examples for their emerald-hued friends, the Frosh. They successfully put on a Fall party and with the proceeds paid to have their likenesses published in the Dial. They looked forward to serving the upper classmen at the Junior-Senior Reception, and ended their second year with a picnic at Duck Lake.

The third and most eventful year of high school life began with an Armistice Day Party, celebrating Marshall's 8—0 win over Albion which clinched the first Twin Valley Championship for Marshall. In February, was presented a rollicking comedy, ''Second Childhood'', with Andy Freede and Bud Murray playing the leading roles and Maxine Murray as the heroine. To culminate their efforts, they brought a piece of the frozen north into the high school gym as a setting for their J-Hop.

Three cheers for Edith Harwood! For the first time, the cup of the Class of '28 was awarded to a junior. The fact that Edith won both the local and sub-district oratorical contests and placed third in the district meet at Lansing was partly responsible for this award. To climax a great year, they held a picnic at Gull Lake.

Three weeks after school resumed in the Senior year, they sponsored an all-high-school party. In early February they presented their class play, ''Polly With a Past'', which proved to be one of the best dramatic productions ever put on by any class. Clive Udell and Isabel Minne were supported by a cast comprising some of the best talent.

''Would you like to win $1,000 in gold? Just solve the enclosed jigsaw puzzle and present it at the Marshall Country Club, Friday evening, May 5.'' Those seniors who complied with that request attended one of the most enjoyable parties ever staged. Because it was against the law to have gold in one's possession, everyone spent his money on candy, pop, hot dogs, and ice cream.

On June 7, the Grande Finale, Commencement. After the speaker, Dean Whitehouse of Albion College, has given an inspiring address, the diplomas are handed out. Some smile as they receive theirs; others are sad. High School has meant much to them. Now they are leaving it. There they go, eighty-one graduates, out to find what the world offers for them.

Activities

Dial Staff

The Journalism class this year had charge of publishing both the school paper and the Annual. The first issue of the Dial, newspaper of the High School, appeared October 7, and was published every two weeks until financial difficulties made it necessary to discontinue the paper after December 22. Each of the four issues were high in literary standing and contained a great deal of school news and several features articles.

Edith Harwood was the editor-in-chief of the paper and the associate editors were Betty Mills and Eleanor Gesner. Mr. D. H. Horton was the supervisor of the class. The editors held their positions during the year while the other positions were varied each month to give each reporter a chance to become familiar with the different phases of journalistic work. The Journalism class also supervised the collection of student union fees.

The Dial staff began its work on the year book immediately after Spring vacation, this publication also being edited and managed by members of the Journalism class under the supervision of Mr. Horton. Edith Harwood was editor of the annual with Eleanor Gesner associate editor and Maxton Murray business manager. Due to a limited budget it has been necessary to reduce the size of the book somewhat, but an effort has been made to have a complete account of the various school organizations.

For the first time in the history of the Annual, Seniors will be given their books free of charge after paying for their own pictures with Student Union members paying only 45c for their Annual.

Band and Orchestra

Marshall High School Band is one of the most popular organizations of the school and under Mr. Jenvey's direction has greatly improved in both quantity and quality.

The band appeared at all home games in both football and basketball and several out-of-town games. It took part in the annual musical program and played for several assemblies and pep meetings, as well as at the dedication of the new post office. They also marched in the Junior Chamber of Commerce parade. The loss of several members will be keenly felt, but there is a fine group of players graduating from the Junior Band.

The German Band, organized this year by Mr. Jenvey, has proved very popular to all audiences who heard it. It is composed of eight members chosen from the High School Band and appeared before several clubs of the city, as well as at high school activities.

It appeared at several plays and programs this year as well as taking part in the musical program. The personell of the orchestra is as follows: First violins; E. Harwood, C. Jaques, H. Kappis, M. Activities

Glee Club

Under the efficient management of Mr. Jenvey, the Girl's and Boys' Glee Clubs have passed through another successful year. Although several members graduated, the clubs have continued to be among the most popular of school activities, to the school and to outside audiences. The Girls' Trio, organized last year, was continued, and made several appearances with the Glee Club. Trio members are: E. Page, soprano; P. Marquardt, second soprano; and I. Minne, alto.

Officers of the Girls' Glee Club were elected as follows: president, Isabel Minne; secretary-treasurer, Phyllis Marquardt; business manager, Elinor Page and the other members are: A. Allen, G. Barningham, D. Bischoff, B. Bushre, M. Butler, V. Clark, M. Hankinson, M. Katz, M. Lower, E. McNary, E. Munn, M. Murray, D. Nelson, M. Reincke, N. Reyer, P. Simpson, R. Van Zandt, M. Walbeck, E. Walkinshaw, E. Weaver, W. Whitney, C. Williamson, and V. Weers.

Although the boys' organization was not as large as last year, it appeared before several enthusiastic audiences. The members of the Boys' Glee Club are: M. Beals, P. Brown, C. Cowles, P. Currie, R. Curtis, L. Evans, E. Orrison, E. Reagle, P. Reagle, P. Rowland, G. Smith, J. Stagg, T. Shepard, and H. Sears.

Both Glee Clubs in cooperation with other musical organizations put on a musical program in March, witnessed by a capacity audience and proved the success of school musical training. Several other newly organized groups also appeared at this program including the saxophone quartette, clarinet quartette, and several solo numbers all of which were trained by Mr. Jenvey.

G. A. A.

The Girls' Athletic Association, under the able supervision of Miss Schertl, celebrated its third anniversary with a full schedule of events. Hikes, suppers, and the Spring Formal were among the activities. Filling the offices of the organization were: president, E. Harwood; vice-president, E. Gesner; secretary, P. Marquardt; treasurer, C. Williamson; hiking master, E. McNary; business manager, R. Schroeder.

The members and pledges began their activities by a hike to Cold Spring Park, Saturday, Oct. 1, for the annual initiation. Soon after the thirty-seven pledges acted as hostesses at the initiation supper in the girls' gym, where they performed various stunts for the amusement of the actives.

The inter-class sports consisted of soccer, basketball, and baseball. A trophy was awarded to the class winning the high score in all games played, at the end of the year. The biggest social event of the season was the annual Spring Formal which was held in April. Halat's orchestra furnished the music for dancing, and the decorations were carried out in the form of a night scene, in blue and silver. The farewell breakfast was held at the Marshall Tavern, May 27, at which time letters and numerals were awarded, and the next year's officers were installed. Short speeches were given by all the officers.

The Dancing Club also had a successful year adding more than twenty new girls to their membership list. Miss Schertl acted as sponsor to the group with M. Murray, pres; P. Robinson, treas.; and Bernadine Sanders, pianist. This organization took part in the gym exhibition in April. Both clubs have done much to promote better sportsmanship among the girls.

F. F. A.

The Marshall High Chapter of the Future Farmers of America came back in the fall after a successful summer of exhibits and demonstrations, with the determination to better the record made by the club in preceding years. The club has a larger membership than it has ever had before and its members produced many successful projects during the summer months, among which was the exhibit at the Calhoun County Fair last fall.

The Marshall Chapter journeyed to Hillsdale on January 16, to conduct the initiation of several new members, and has conferred the Future Farmer Degree upon candidates at Lakeview and Olivet.

Virgil Goodrich, one of the outstanding members of the local chapter, had the honor of being awarded the degree of State Farmer at the State Convention held in Lansing. The requirements of this degree are very rigid and the local chapter is proud that one of their members has received it. Only two percent of the total membership of the F. F. A. in the state can be given this Degree. Edward Farmer and Gaylord Smith were the delegates for the local chapter at the State Convention. Eli Reagle, another member, won the prize for the Reserve Grand Champion Lamb at the Junior Livestock Show in Detroit.

Under the supervision of Mr. Wilcox, the boys are organizing a baseball team, and are arranging a schedule of games with nearby chapters. They also presented one of the Student Council Assemblies in May.

The officers of the chapter this year are: pres., L. Wheeler; vice-pres., E. Farmer; Secretary, V. Goodrich; Treasurer, A. Wheeler; reporter, G. Eyre; watchdog, A. Knapp.

Activities

Usher Club

The Usher Club was organized several years ago under the sponsorship of Miss Elsie Wagner, who understood the school's need for an organization of this type. Each year, the girls who graduate are replaced by a new group. This year the club contains twenty.

At an early meeting, Isabel Minne and Ruth Schroeder were elected Head Usher and Assistant Head Usher respectively. With their aid, the girls were taught to usher in the most efficient manner.

Other members are as follows: Seniors: Elinor Page, Helen Kraushaar, Cecil Clark, Eleanor Gesner, Marjorie Badger, Hester Greene, Betty Mills, Maxine Murray, and Evelyn Zull. Juniors: Harriet Waltz, Georgia Olds, Glenna Barningham, Margaret Carpenter, Phyllis Marquardt, Clara Williamson, and Peggy Robinson. Sophomores: Marjorie Jones, and Alice Cortright. Although there have not been as many functions at which to usher as in previous years, there has been a pleasing variety. The club has ushered at "Henry's Wedding", the Senior Play, the Musical Program, the Gym Exhibition, the Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting, and the Junior Play.

To top their accomplishments in a favorable manner, the Usher Club produced the snappiest play the Student Council sponsored this year in "Thanks Awfully." With Helen Kraushaar as the heroine, and Ruth Schroeder as the hero, the audience was kept in uproarious laughter throughout the performance.

Speech Activities

Those who participated in debating this year were Edith Harwood, Maxton Murray, Eleanor Gesner, Margaret Murray, Marjorie Jones, and Nyle Barningham. The question assigned was: Resolved, that the State of Michigan should adopt a State Income Tax. The team did not enter the State Debating League as in previous years, but participated in debates conducted in the Twin Valley League. The Twin Valley League began with practice debates followed directly afterwards by those which were judged. The Marshall debating team also spent its efforts during this time in practice debates with other schools outside of the Twin Valley League.

The local oratorical contest was also conducted under the supervision of Miss Lorah. The three contestants, chosen from the Junior and Senior classes were Phyllis Marquardt, Edith Harwood and Eleanor Gesner. Miss Gesner took first place and entered the sub-district contest which was held at Charlotte, early in April.

The declamatory contest was won by Maxine Bails, with Tommy Brownfield placing second. A group of Freshmen and Sophomores participated in this contest, which was conducted under the supervision of Mr. Horton. Miss Bails participated in the sub-district declamatory contest also held in Charlotte.

Edith Harwood won the Extemporaneous speaking contest. The other contestants were Betty Mills and Evelyn Walkinshaw. Miss Lorah coached the speakers. Miss Harwood entered the sub-district contest and took second place.

Science Club

Under the direction of Mr. Hammond and with only four members present from last year, the Science Club opened its ninth year with a meeting on September 20, in the Science rooms where plans were discussed for initiation of the twenty newly-elected members.

On Monday evening, October 10, the club had its annual banquet in the Home Economics rooms, followed by initiation for the new members in the Science rooms which proved to be most "shocking." Many thanks are due Miss Hammond and Mrs. Twist, who were in charge of the banquet, and Robert Hervig, an alumnus of the club, who proved a very capable toastmaster.

On April 17 the members motored to Battle Creek and watched the making of Postum products at the Postum plant. They then went to the gas company and witnessed the making of gas.

Early in May the club journeyed to Jackson and visited the Jackson Prison. The activities of the year came to a close with a trip to Lansing where Michigan State College and the State Capitol were visited. The club brought its year's work to an end with a picnic the same day.

Fourteen members of this year's club will graduate leaving nine for the nucleus of the club next year. The officers for the year were: Harold Twist, president; Charles Jaques, vice-president; Dale Bemis, secretary-treasurer; and George Eyre, sergeant-at-arms.

Activities

Commercial Club

The Commercial Club was organized last year under the competent supervision if Mrs. Wright. Only those people taking both shorthand and typing are eligible for membership in this organization.

This year the club contains forty members. Those who answer to roll call are: Maxine Murray, Esther Hoenes, Evelyn Zull, Cecil Clark, Helen Kraushaar, Elinor Page, Wilma Whitney, Letha Twa, Pauline Bayley, Helen Ragina, Thelma Cowles, Doris Bischoff, Ruth Osmun, Shirley Guinn, Louise Bicknell, Dorothy Sipe, Glenna Barningham, Margaret Carpenter, Eleanor McNary, Beverly Reeg, Mildred Jones, Peggy Robinson, Madoline Townsend, Valda Kimmel, Carmen Comstock, Lavinia Nelson, Ruth Smiley, Marjorie Burrows, Ruth Schroeder, Barbara Bentley, Alma Bosserd, Francis Miller, Lydia Schrock, Vena Letts, Thelma Mitchell, Helen Eipper, George Bachman, and Milton Keller.

With Louise Bicknell as president, Elinor Page as vice-president, Evelyn Zull as secretary-treasurer, and Pauline Bailey as chairman of the Social Welfare Committee, the second year continued as successfully as the first.

One of the first Student Council Assemblies to be given by the various departments of the school was presented by the Commercial Club. The two-act play "Diogenes Looks for a Secretary" was thoroughly enjoyed by the students. The cast consisted of Maxine Murray, Clive Udell, Roger Johnson, Nyle Barningham, Cecil Clark, Doris Bischoff, Helen Kraushaar, Elinor Page, and Wilma Whitney. This play was again presented at the exhibition in May and hearty applause well rewarded those taking part, for their efforts.

Hot Lunches

Starting in the early part of November and lasting until late in May, an average of one hundred and forty-five school children have been served a free lunch each noon under the able supervision of Miss Arcena Bebertz, instructor of the cooking department.

This activity derives its financial backing from individual contributions and those of organizations. Vegetables, fruits and other foods are given, as well as money. Because of these food donations, expenses are very low and it is only necessary to spend an average of 4½c daily per child. $6.25 a week takes care of the total expenses of the week. Everything needed is purchased from the home stores, whose proprietors have shown great kindness in extending their cooperation.

The cooking classes aid in preparing the food and also in serving. As there are one eighth grade group and two high school groups, the girls work in shifts so that members of each class will be given a chance to help. One group serves, another supervises in the dining room, and the third washes the dishes. All are given a free meal. Those in the dining room are on the lookout for dirty hands and faces, and bad table manners.

Since the beginning of the school year, a vast improvement can be noticed in this group of boys and girls. Long thin faces are beginning to round out and quiet manners are taking the place of more boisterous ones.

Library Club

The Library Club probably has more work to do than any of the other organizations. Each minute of the period the librarians are supposed to be busy at some task. These are thousands of little odds and ends that must be attended to.

During each of the seven periods of the day there are two girls who fill the duties of librarians. Those making up the fourteen are as follows: Harriet Waltz and Margaret Whalen, first hour; Edith Harwood and Isabel Minne, second hour; Cecil Clark and Helen Kraushaar, third hour; Betty Mills and Ruth Schroeder, fourth hour; Maxine Abendshein and Virginia Cook, fifth hour; Marjorie Badger and Hester Greene, sixth hour; and Clara Williamson and Alta May Schwark, seventh hour.

Every six weeks a new section is assigned to each team so that the librarians will become familiar with all the books in the library. They are responsible for their sections and must report all missing books to Mrs. Parry. Also each week one of the groups must arrange the display shelf, carrying out one general topic for their theme.

Besides these major duties there is the occupation of watching the desk, checking out books and magazines, watering plants, straightening the Encyclopedias and other reference books, allowing only one person to read the paper at a time, and many other miscellaneous things.

The librarians' duties are somewhat greater this year due to the problem over magazines. Formerly they were kept on the racks but they were lost so often that they are now kept at the desk and checked out.

Activities

Football

Under the capable guidance of Coaches Carr and Clark, with Captain "Bill" Clayborn at the helm, the Marshall High School "Redskins" 1932 football squad went to town, scoring five victories, no losses, and two tie games to win second place in the Twin Valley.

On Monday afternoon, September 5, forty-seven eager faces greeted "Charlie" as he passed out uniforms to the prospective team. He set them to work immediately learning the fundamentals of the game. Then, after two weeks of grueling practice, they journeyed to Parma on the afternoon of September 16, and came out on the long end of a 51—0 score. Ten days later, on their own field, they officially opened the Twin Valley competition by scoring a 46—0 win over Lakeview.

Bouyed up by confidence gained in these contests, the locals traveled to Sturgis and battled the strong Sturgis aggregation to a 7—7 tie on October 1. Two weeks later they trimmed the Kalamazoo State High team to the tune of 40—0 on our own field. Then, on October 22, they went to Coldwater to play the game which officially dedicated Coldwater's new gridiron. Alhough they played a good field game, the Carrmen lacked the scoring punch and were held to a 0—0 tie by the Bauermen. Next we find them slithering through the slimy mud of the fair grounds in a cold drizzling rain on October 29 against a determined Hillsdale squad. With much fumbling and slipping, they skidded to a 6—0 victory over the Dales. Then for a fitting climax to a successful season, the "Redskins" journeyed to Albion on Armistice Day and trounced their old rivals 51—0, the first time that Marshall has beat Albion on her own field since 1919.

Three Marshall players received honors in Dick Remington's All-State choices this season. Wendell Miller, veteran tackle, was given a berth on Remington's third team. This is the first time that any Marshall player has ever received more than an honorable mention. Captain William Clayborn was placed at the head of a long string of backs receiving honorable mention. Roger Johnson was the third of the trio from Marshall. He rose from obscurity to stardom this season and received a well earned honorable mention.

Much of the credit for the success of this year's squad is due to Coach Charlie Carr and his able assistant, Coach Rex Clark. Every night from the time school dismissed until dark and sometimes after supper, they worked diligently and unceasingly with the boys until the season was completed.

Basketball

Once more Coaches Carr and Clark scored a victory. Last year they made Marshall's football team Twin Valley Champions, this year they put their efforts on the basketball squad with the result that the Redskins won second place in the Twin Valley race, won the regional tournament, and went to the semi-finals in the state tournament before losing to Mt. Pleasant by the close score of 21—20.

On December 22 the team met Lakeview in the first conference game, running up a score of 23 points to Battle Creek's Southsiders' 7. The locals, through fine defense, easily overcame their opponents. When Sturgis came here on January 6 the team found they had a different proposition facing them. After a hard fought battle the Sturgeons won in the overtime period with the score 21—18. The Redskins met Hillsdale here, January 13. Because of an excellent defense and a fine exhibition of guarding by Johnson and Welch, Hillsdale was defeated 19—14. The following week the team fought a hard battle at Coldwater but came home with another scalp, with the score 26—22. The Carrmen met Albion on January 27 for their second defeat of the season. Although the Redmen put up a good fight, Lady Luck was not with them and the Red and White won the game by a score of 22—19. Lakeview received its second trouncing from the locals on February 1 with the score 36—18, the most points made in any one game during the season by the Redskins. The third defeat was with Sturgis on February 10, when the powerful Sturgeons again defeated the Redskins by the score of 21—12, the only bad defeat the team suffered. Having had a real battle at Coldwater, the Carrmen were fully prepared for the team on the return game here, February 17, and ran up a score of 24 points to their opponent's 16. With conference standing five to three, the locals defeated Hillsdale for the second time by a score of 20—18. The last conference game was played at Albion, and the team won 11—9.

The tournament games were held at Albion College where Marshall encountered Eaton Rapids. The locals won 16—14. The second game was with Charlotte and the team easily won 30—14. For the third time during the season the Redskins met Albion on March 11. After on of the season's most exciting games Marshall came out victorious 13—12.

Having won second place in the Twin Valley League and first place in the regional tournament, by the defeat of Ypsilanti, the Redskins embarked for Lansing. Here the real thriller of the season was played with Mt. Pleasant in the semi-finals on March 18. With both teams fighting their hardest to enter the state finals the game was one of the season's best. When the final whistle blew Mt. Pleasant was but one point ahead of the Carrmen and won the game 21—20.

RESPONSIBLE

The fact that we have successfully served over 6,500 yearbook publishers during the past thirty years, contains a truism that is apparent to the discerning. ✱ ✱ ✱ Success is exacting. Our standard of quality was established years ago when preference for our products heralded the upward trend in our business. Today we are duty bound to uphold that measure of quality, and put the same intrinsic worth into every square inch of etched copper and zinc that leaves our delivery room. The vicissitudes of external conditions are never reflected in our products. Their excellence is an unchanging factor and a fixed responsibility. ✱ ✱ ✱ Thus, to do business with the largest yearbook art and engraving organization in America is plainly to your advantage.
